The adoption of new sanctions against Russia complicates the restoration of ties with Western participants. The development of cooperation is carrying out in several strategic areas. It includes ensuring security, and solving the victual problem, and implementing large investment projects, and exchanging technologies and products.

The annual international forum "North Caucasus in a Changing World" sets itself the task of determining the vector of such cooperation, identifying the potential of the North Caucasus in connecting Russia's ties with the countries of the Middle East, North Africa, Türkiye and other countries of the world, as well as developing a roadmap for approaching and developing ties in important areas. The topics of the forum touch upon the main issues related to the priority for Russia and the North Caucasus: the prospects for the development of an export industrial enterprise and implementation of investment projects, decisions on technologies and implementation, education export, the development of the agricultural market, tourist and recreational services. The events of the Forum will be presented at the platform for representatives of the partner countries.

The forum gathers on one platform a representative delegation of friendly countries (Egypt, Algeria, Libya, UAE, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Türkiye), representatives of authorities at all levels, development institutions, representatives of large, medium and small businesses exposed to the Russian experts and scientists.

In 2022, the Forum will combine two formats: a traditional offline platform with business negotiations, expert discussions on topical issues of building interaction with friendly countries, and an online format taking into account interactive interests for those wishing to participate remotely.
